New Residence.
Mr. E. C. Bogie, of College Hill, has been awarded the contract to build a handsome residence for Robt. Turpin at Red House.

Its dollars to doughnuts that you will forget to hand us "Our Dollar" when you come to town.

Thaw Free.

Judge Hendrick declared that he would hold in accord with the verdict of the jury that Harry Thaw was now sane. He entered judgment accordingly granting Thaw his freedom. An appeal has been asked by the State. Thaw was required to execute a bond in the sum of $50,000.00.

This will probably end the case. For nine years this case has been before the courts in one form or another.

Floods.

Madison county was visited by heavy rains on the south side on Silver, Paint Lick, and Red Lick creeks. The water came in torrents and rose rapidly. Residences and stores were flooded and property loss is great. Herea and vicinity suffered severely. The lands on Red Lick were badly worked and crops greatly damaged. Hay stacks were carried down the stream, water gaps and bridges washed out and general havoc wrought to small crops. The same is true of Red House and the streams of that vicinity in a smaller way. The entire country has been rain soaked for several days and much damage has been done to crops, especially the wheat crop. It is feared that it will sprout in the shock. However Thursday's sun and unusual heat may save it.

BIRTHS

James Judy Hamilton is the name of a young gentleman who arrived Wednesday, July 11 to make his home with Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Hamilton. Both mother and son are doing well. The father is wearing that smile that wont come off.

Monday August 2, is court day. Come in and help us with your dollar.

DEATHS

The remains of Cyrus Park, who died of pneumonia at his home in Excelsior Springs on Monday morning July 12, at 5 o'clock, were brought to Liberty Tuesday afternoon and buried in Fairview cemetery, after funeral services at the Christian church by Rev. J. P. Jones, assisted by Elder A. B. Jones and J. P. Greene. Brief services were held at the home in Excelsior Springs, by Rev. Jones and Dr. C. R. Nisbet, before the body was brought to Liberty.

The deceased was born in Madison county, Kentucky, September 7, 1838, where he remained until married, January 2, 1861, to Miss Mary E. Cobb, when they came to Missouri, settling in Clay County a few miles east of Liberty, where Mr. Park engaged in farming and stock raising. He came to Liberty to reside 1780, where the family lived until 1887, going then to Excelsior Springs, where they have since resided. Mr. Park was a devoted member of the Christian church and a man who makes even more imperal careful decisions as to the course in the future. The attack on the British liner, without warning, when she was bound away from, not toward England, has served completely to dispel the illusion that Germany was not really going to attack any more passenger ships. This case shows, it is declared, that the president and his advisers must have a decision here this week, with the fact fully in mind, that any day is likely to bring forth a case requiring that the action to be agreed upon shall be taken.

The president arrived here without a single suggestion to indicate his state of mind regarding the issue with Germany in its present phase.

PRESIDENT TO HASTEN REPLY

Orduna Case Given as Reason
For Quick Action.

TO STAND FIRM ON POLICY

New Move Indicates That the Most Decisive Action of the War on the Russian Front Is Now Pending—
Calm on West Front.

Washington, July 19.—As a result of President Wilson's arrival in Washington today, it is expected that this week will record the most important step by this government in the management of its foreign relations.

The president will confer with Secretary Lansing and will meet all of his cabinet at the White House on Tuesday. Both the president and his advisers have had a week in which to consider the problem confronting them, and there is no doubt here but that Tuesday noon will see the basis of the American course agreed upon.

It is well known that he is coming solely for the purpose of directing the answer which this government is to make to the German note of ten days ago in which the German government failed to meet any of the demands two made upon it by President Wilson, in regard to submarine operations. There is little doubt that the end of the week will see the American note on its way to Berlin.

While the president's advisers are for the most part convinced that the American people are not demanding an immediate action of their government any rash or drastic action at this time, the conviction is shared by all of them that the country has certainly made it plain that there must be no yielding of the stand on principle taken in the earlier notes. Members of the president's official family also are keenly aware of a phase of the situation of which it is believed the general public has taken less thought; that is that the time has come for the United States not only to answer the last German note, but also to determine on the course to be pursued should Germany again cause the destruction of American lives in violation of the hitherto unquestioned rights of neutrals on the high seas. It is this phase of the situation which is causing the deepest concern here, and it is felt that it is not difficult to determine the kind of a reply which the last note from Germany merits. It is a delicate problem to determine what further action this government should take in the event of more Americans being made victims of German submarines.

The Orduna case, it was said here, makes even more imperal careful decisions as to the course in the future. The attack on the British liner, without warning, when she was bound away from, not toward England, has served completely to dispel the illusion that Germany was not really going to attack any more passenger ships. This case shows, it is declared, that the president and his advisers must have a decision here this week, with the fact fully in mind, that any day is likely to bring forth a case requiring that the action to be agreed upon shall be taken.

The president arrived here without a single suggestion to indicate his state of mind regarding the issue with Germany in its present phase.

FEAR SPYS IN NAVY YARD

Man Arrested in the Brooklyn Navy Yard as Result of Scare.

New York, July 19.—Unusual vigilance is being exercised at the Brooklyn navy yard, following the "spy" scare at the League Island navy yard, at Philadelphia. It has resulted in the arrest of George McLaughlin of Brooklyn, in the yard. The man was wandering about in an aimless manner when one of the guards saw him. He followed the man for some distance and when he had doubled on his tracks several times, was accosted by the guard.

The arrest was made near the main gate barracks. McLaughlin was placed in the guard house. He appeared to be demented and could give no reason for his presence.

McLaughlin was then taken before the commanding officer, Rear Admiral Usher, and during the course of his questioning he said that he was a former worker in the yards. The commanding officer held him pending further examination. His record will also be looked up.

LOOKOUT FOR TYPHOID FEVER.

Now is typhoid fever time. It is well for the City and County Health Boards to pick their eyes and keep them open. The weeds should be cut on all vacant lots and the streets and alleys should have all rubbish removed. The breeding places of mosquitoes should be drained if possible and if it is impossible to drain them, they should be covered with oil. Why should this city be allowed to become a breeding place for such pestiferous creatures? For many years, the citizens have been trying to get rid of certain old, worthless ponds which are of no value to anyone and which are exceedingly annoying both because of malarial troubles as well as contagion for many fevers.

These ponds have been condemned by health boards and the administrative forces of the city fail to carry out the orders of the board. It is the duty of the Mayor to see that these orders are obeyed.

The Water and Light Co., should at once see that all dead ends to their water mains are properly drained and fresh water put in the same. If they fail to do so, the Mayor should see that proper penalties are meted out to them. This is a source of typhoid fever and should be well guarded. The muddy fluid that we get after each rain, is a suggestion that there should be established without delay a filtering plant. It might be well to look after the ice supply also.

An ounce of prevention is worth pounds of cure.

THE PRIMARY.

The election is not over, nor is there a band wagon passing by. Elections are won and lost at the eleventh hour sometimes.

In the Governor's race, all the candidates have many friends and strong supporters in the local field. The State candidates have not attracted much attention because they are overshadowed by the Governor's race and the Circuit Judge's race.

Our local candidate Mr. H. H. Collier should not be forgotten or overlooked. His opponent has no claim on us. A vote lost by negligence will hurt him that much. Therefore, look well to your ballot and stamp it for him.

In the Circuit Judge's race both gentlemen are so well known that it would be audacious presumption for us to suggest to the voters, arguments in favor of either. The life of both men lies before you. Both have made enviable reputations for themselves in their respective official careers.

In the smaller offices, the candidates are showing great activity.

Taking the county and city as a whole, Madison county has had a most thorough cultivation and there are no political weeds left.

SEWERS.

Richmond has decided that Main street shall be paved on certain blocks. Before the work is done, it would be well to look after the sewerage. Richmond must have an up-to-date sewerage system. It can be constructed at a moderate cost. Before the brick streets are constructed, is the time to see after this work. The recent experience in tearing up Main street four times to get one small sewer pipe proves.

The readers of this paper will be glad to learn that there is at least one dredged disease in the human body able to cure in all its stages, and that is the German Cancer. This is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Cancer being a constitutional disease, it is not to be eradicated by the law but by protesting against prostitution. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and directly up to the blood and mucous membranes of the system, by destroying the foundation of the disease, and thus the body is enabled to build up the constitution and assisting nature in her work. The practitioners are so much fat in their pockets that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for the book.

FROM OUT OF THE EARTH

We republish below an editorial from the Wall Street Journal. The facts stated must have a beneficial effect upon those who are oppressed by a feeling of pessimism and look upon the future of this country with doubt: If anyone feels depressed over the effect of war upon business, it will do him good to take a look at the harvest prospects. He will see a promise near fulfillment of one of the greatest winter wheat crops ever harvested and, with spring wheat in splendid condition and nature favoring it, a total wheat yield of 963,000,000 bushels. Never has this country seen such a harvest as this. It even amounts to one-fourth the world's production of wheat and with an assured market at a remunerative price, the whole country must feel its stimulating effect.

Gras and barley are striving to surpass their former records, with every prospect of coming under the wire as winners. Grass and forage crops, which supply pasture, fodder, and ensilage for the country's greatest industry, all look well. We should watch these crops with more interest than we do, because they exert an enormous influence upon the country's welfare.

An abundant corn crop gives the country a feeling akin to that of having money in the bank. It seems to make a foundation for confidence. Who can look at the corn prospect and not feel the better for it? True, drought and extreme heat in the next six weeks may change the prospect. On the other hand merely normal summer conditions will raise the crop above the present level and, with the large acreage, ordinary conditions throughout the season will assure a magnificent yield.

Taking the list of minor crops, of which the business world thinks little, but which add many millions to the purchasing power of the rural communities, it will be seen that they too are doing their little best to make our basic industry bulk bigger than ever in this year of destruction.

Aside from cotton, all must command prices above the ordinary. To the high prices nature is promising to add large yields. Billions of new wealth will come from the soil this season. If the future looks dark to any business man, let him gaze for a few moments at the panorama of the crops. It is like the sunshine breaking through the clouds.

GOING FAR BACK

No president since the foundation of the government has stuck to his job more closely than Woodrow Wilson, according to the record. It is a significant fact that he has spent more consecutive days and a larger proportion of his entire time in Washington than did either of his predecessors.—Harradburg Herald.

Because a citizen, public, or private, endorses a candidate who favors temperance, is no reason that said citizen can be termed as a Prohibitionist. As we have remarked before, it is extremely unfortunate that this State-wide question was ever injected into politics. But it has taken the place of politics in both of the old parties and how can it be otherwise, until it is settled for once and all. Has one part of the State a right to say that whisky shall not be sold and in another part that it shall? We, for one, do not want to see liquor wiped out of Jessamine and then sold in an adjoining county. State-wide is the only remedy for this.—Jessamine News.

The bonded indebtedness of the City of Richmond is now $20,000 for School Bonds, payable as follows:

$1,000 on each January 1st, for the years 1916, 1917, 1918, 1919, 1920.

$1,500 on each January 1st, for the years 1921, 1922, 1923, 1924, 1925, 1926, 1927, 1928, 1929, 1930.

Respectfully Submitted,

L. P. Evans, City Treas.

December 31, 1914.

There should be taken from this total sum of $75,866.44 the sum of $11,500.00, money borrowed from the State Bank and Trust Co., which was repaid to it, which leaves a total balance of $64,366.44. We of course used round numbers.

In addition to this the City now owes $20,000.00 in School Bonds, voted to add to Caldwell High School.

When the people voted $20,000.00 for this purpose they limited it to that sum. Yet, there was expended in that building the sum of about $28,000.00.

It is not our purpose to raise a row. We simply give the facts.

SPEAK OUT, GENTLEMEN.

Messrs. Albin Cornelison, Jno. F. White, Frank L. Russell and Walter Q. Park are all candidates for the Legislature. So far as we have been able to learn, only one of these gentlemen has clearly stated what his position will be on the question that is paramount in the public mind at this time—THE QUESTION OF SUBMITTING TO THE PEOPLE A VOTE ON STATEWIDE PROHIBITION. To submit the proposition, does not mean, a vote either in favor of or against it. It is democracy pure and simple to submit the question and let the people decide for themselves by their ballots. The people have a right to know how the man they send to the Legislature stands on the question of submitting to the people the proposition. We respectfully call upon each and every one of the aspirants to the office to state publicly and in plain terms how he stands and how he will vote on the question. The people have a right to know. We shall see that this article is brought to attention of each of the candidates and we expect to publish their answers. If any candidate refuses or neglects to answer in our next issue, we shall call attention to that fact. We intend so far as lies within our power, that the people shall know how each one stands on this paramount question in order that they may know for whom and for what they are voting.

VERY IMPORTANT.

The constitution of this State requires certain qualifications for a member of the Legislature. It reads as follows:

32. Qualifications of Members.

"No person shall be a Representative who, at the time of his election, is not a citizen of Kentucky, has not attained the age of twenty-four years, and who has not resided in this State two years next preceding his election and the last year thereof in the county, town or city for which he may be chosen."

We inquire where has the Hon. John F. White resided for the last seven or eight years? This is exceedingly important to us. Madison county is entitled to have a member from MADISON.

The Exploits of Elaine

A Detective Novel and a Motion Picture Drama

SYNOPSIS.

The New York police are mystified by a series of murders and other crimes. The principal clue to the criminal is the warning letter which is sent the victims, signed with the name of the mysterious assassin is Taylor Dodge, the insurance president. His daughter, Elaine, is a young woman, the famous scientific detective, to try to unravel the mystery. What Kennedy, a man of many talents, attempts to do with the Clutch Hand. The man is last found to be none other than the Chinaman. Elaine's lawyer, the man who is given to the Chinese, tries to the end of one of the Chinese, the Chinaman, to free him from the secret of the secret. Then, when he gives the lawyer a sum of money, he disappears. Kennedy races across the country just after he has lost consciousness.

EIGHTEENTH EPISODE

THE VENGEANCE OF WU FANG.

Elaine was still in the power of Wu Fang. Kennedy had thwarted the Chinese master criminal in his search for the millions amassed by the Clutch Hand. But any joy that he might have derived from this success was completely obscured by the fear that Wu might wreak some diabolical vengeance on Elaine.

None of Kennedy's fears unfounded. Wu and Long Sin had scarcely reached the secret apartment when the subtle Chinaman began to contemplate revenge.

Long Sin was smoking a Chinese pipe, resting after their hurried flight, while Wu, the tireless, was seated at a table at the other end of the room. At last Wu Fang took up a long Chinese dirk from the table before him, looked at it, turned it over, felt its edge. He rose and deliberately walked across to a door leading into a back room.

On a couch lay Elaine, and with her, as a guardian, was Weepy Mary.

As Wu, the Serpent, entered and advanced slowly toward Elaine, she reached back from him in deadly fear.

Slowly he drew from under his robe the Chinese dirk. He felt the edge of it again and gazed significantly at Elaine.

It was a critical moment. Just then Long Sin entered. "One of the five millions waits outside," he reported, simply, with a bow.

Wu understood. It had been a pleasant fiction of his that although he did not, of course, absolutely control such stupendous organization, he could, by his subtle power, force almost unlimited allegiance from the simple toiles in that district of China from which he came.

Out in the front room, just a moment before, a knock at the door had disturbed Long Sin, and a Chinese servant had announced a visitor. Long Sin had waved to the servant to usher him in, and a poorly clad coolie had entered.

He bowed as Long Sin faced him. "Where is the master?" he had asked. Long Sin had not deigned to speak. With a mere wave of his hand he indicated that he would be the bearer of the message, and had followed Wu through the door of the back room.

So, almost by chance, Wu was interrupted in the brutal vengeance which had first come to his mind. He heathed the knife and, still without a word, went back into the main room, leaving a nod to Weepy Mary to guard Elaine closely.

Wu eyed the coolie until the newcomer could almost feel the master's penetrating gaze, although his head was bowed in awe. Quickly the coolie moved his hands under his blouse and drew forth a package. With another bow he advanced.

"For your enemies, O master," he said, handing the package over to Wu.

The coolie started to open the package, removed the paper wrapper, and then a silk wrapping inside. Finally he came to a box, from which he drew a leather pouch, each operation conducted with greater care as it became evident that the contents were especially precious in some way. Then he took from the pouch a small vial.

"What is it?" demanded Wu Fang, as the coolie displayed it.

The coolie drew forth now a magnifying glass and a glass slide. Opening the vial with great care he shook something out on the slide, then placed it under the lens.

"Look!" he said simply.

He bent over and looked. Under the lens what had formerly seemed to be merely a black speck of dirt became now one of the most weird and uncanny little creatures to be found in all the realm of nature. It seemed to be all legs and feelers moving at once. A normal person would have looked at the creature only with the greatest repugnance. Wu regarded it with a sort of vague fascination.

"And it is," he quered.

"What the white man calls the African tick which carries the recurrent fever," answered the coolie deferentially.

"Walt," he said to the coolie, as he moved slowly again into the back room.

Long Sin had remained there. With Weepy Mary he was guarding Elaine, when Wu Fang re-entered. Elaine was thoroughly aroused by this time.

"Sleeping is a state of mind," Wu Fang said in tones, "and I have decided that it would be poor revenge for me to harm you. You are free."

Nothing could have come as a greater surprise to Elaine.

"Do you—do you really mean it?" he asked, scarcely able to believe what her ears heard.

Wu merely nodded, and with a wave of his hand to Long Sin indicated that Elaine was to be released.

She nervously turned to take several steps toward the door. She had scarcely crossed half the room.

"Wait!" ordered Wu sharply.

Was he merely torturing her, as a cat might torture a mouse? She stopped obediently, afraid to look at him.

"This will be the vengeance of Wu Fang," he went on impressively. "Slowly, one by one, your friends will weaken and die, then your family, until finally only you are left. They will come to you."

Finally his eye rested on the telephone. It seemed to suggest an idea to him and he crossed over to it. Carefully he examined the telephone.

Craig managed to get out his microscope and was looking through it at the strange black specks on the Turning to His Microscope.

"Look!" said Kennedy, holding down the receiver on the hook, he unhooked the telephone which holds the diaphragm, while with his eleven fingers he held the rest of the instrument intact. Then he removed from his pocket the vial which the coolie had given him and placed its contents on the diaphragm itself. Quickly now he replaced the receiver and, having finished their work, Long Sin and Wu Fang stealthily crept out.

A second time, as we approached our apartment after the visit to Elaine, we were too excited to notice the luminous in which were Wu and Long Sin. But no sooner had we entered than Long Sin left the car with a final word of instruction from his master.

Upstairs, in the apartment, Kennedy hurried to pack, and I helped him as well as I could. We were in the midst of it when the telephone rang and I answered it. "Hello!" I called.

The boy arrived finally and the doctor gave him a generous tip, to hurry with the note.

He had turned the corner, however, when Long Sin appeared. Subtly he played on the boy's cupidity to get him to deliver a note of his own—ever offered to deliver the boy's note for him. The dash of a five dollar bill made the rest easy.

As the boy disappeared on a fake errand, Long Sin, with the real note, hurried downtown, smiling wickedly.

"They have discovered the fever, master," he reported in the den.

He was beside himself with rage.

Before he could speak, however, Long Sin spread out Godowski's message.

"But I have this," he added.

It took merely a glance to suggest to Wu a new plan of action. He rose and moved quickly into the back room. "Come," he ordered Weepy Mary. "You must dress up as a nurse—immediately." Quickly she donned one of the numerous disguises, while Wu planned his campaign.

"Here," he directed when she was ready, handing her a little vial. "You must infect every instrument the doctor uses on Kennedy and Jameson—

She nodded, and a moment later was on her way up.

Meanwhile Godowski himself had hurried to our apartment, much to the relief of our friend Johnson, and was unpacking his instruments.

Quickly he had improvised two operating tables and placed one of us on each. Then, with his assistant, he put on his white robe, mask, gloves and other precautions for asepsis, setting out the apparatus for the intravenous administration of the drug that would kill the spirochete.

They had finished their preparations and were waiting for Miss Septix.

"She ought to be here now," muttered Godowski impatiently, looking at his watch.

Just then a cab drove up outside.

"Perhaps that is she!" he exclaimed.

A few moments later the door of the apartment opened. His face showed his disappointment. It was a stranger.

"Miss Septix is ill," she introduced, "and sent me to take her place."

The doctor looked about. "Very well," he said briskly, seeing his preparations. "Are you ready to go ahead?"

She nodded and threw off the coat that covered her immaculate white uniform.

The specialist plunged whole-heartedly into his work of saving us now.

"Hand me the needle, please," he directed at a false nurse.

She moved over to the table near him. He adjusted it and already held it poised for the thrust which was not to cure but to poison us further.

"Weepy Mary!" cried a frightened voice at our door.

Elaine had been deeply alarmed by the sudden illness of Kennedy and the message from Jameson. No sooner had Kennedy gone than it flashed over her that Wu Fang had predicted something like this.

"The threat!" she exclaimed, seeking her cousin. "Mary, I must go to the city—right away."

On the next train, then, she had been speedily back to New York.

One glance at the improvised hospital was enough to alarm her. But the sight that had transfixed her was of a woman whose face she remembered well, though Kennedy and I had never seen her.

"Please hurry," repeated the doctor.

She turned from the table and handed it to him. He adjusted it and already held it poised for the thrust which was not to cure but to poison us further.

INVESTIGATE!

AN APPEAL TO THE DEMOCRACY OF MADISON COUNTY.

CUCUMBERS combined with other vegetables make dainty and cool summer salads. Some ways of preparing these are suggested here:

With Mint Sauce.

Plain Cucumber Salad.—Feel the cucumber thinly and cut it into very thin slices. Dust these with pepper and salt and add to them a very little finely minced onion. Then add two large tablespooms of oil and half a gill of freshly made mint sauce. Mix all well together. Stand in a cool place for twenty minutes or half an hour and then serve.

Cucumbers, French Style.—Slice a green cucumber vertically, not in width, with half an ounce of salt and pickle for four hours. Drain well and arrange the slices on a dish with pepper, oil vinegar and a tablespoom of chopped herbs, such as parsley, chervil and tarragon put over the slices.

Quite a mixture.

Cucumber and Chicken Salad.—It is by no means necessary to have celery for chicken salad, as other vegetables more available in summer give it an excellent and novel flavor. Crisp, fresh cucumbers, for instance, combine well with the chicken, and French peas add make it very tempting. Use two large cucumbers and one can of peas to every quart of chicken.

Appreciated by Picnickers.

Cucumber Sandwich Salad.—Prepare a slender cucumber with a knife that will scallop the edges of the slices. Make a rich paste of cream cheese, chopped onions, a few nuts, the juice of a small lemon and some finely chopped herbs. Mix well with pepper and salt, and paprika or cayenne. Spread this paste between two slices of the cucumber and lay the tiny sandwiches on lettuce leaves. Cover with mayonnaise, garnishing the sand with small strips of green pepper and olives.

A Rich Food.

Cucumber Rings.—Take one cucumber, a little oil, vinegar, pepper and salt, a little minced meat, one hard boiled egg, parsley, two tablespooms of cream. Cut cucumber into pieces one inch long, leavening the outside in alternate strips of green by removing some of the rind in strips. Then soak for a short time in a mixture of vinegar, pepper and salt. Then add two slices of the rind in strips of green, and lay the tiny sandwiches on lettuce leaves. Cover with mayonnaise, garnishing the sand with small strips of green pepper and olives.

HOW TO USE BEETS.

BEETS steamed and dressed with butter and seasoning may be served satisfactorily with almost any menu. In addition to this popular way of serving them, there are many others whose merits need only be known to be appreciated.

Novel Ways of Stewing.

Steamed Beets.—Stew beets in the oven until they are tender; take them out and when cold remove the outer skin. Cut them in slices and pour a little vinegar over them. Then place them in a casserole with a little salt as will cover them. Simmer for half an hour. Thicken the gravy before serving with some cream in which you have mixed a slice or two of beet beaten in a mortar.

Combined With Onions.

Beets With Plummet Sauce.—Take two or three beets and wash them clean. Care not to break any of the fibers; otherwise they will lose their color in boiling. Boil till tender with two or three dozen small onions. When they are done take off the skin and the outside fibers of the beets and slice down. Stew in the oven for ten minutes. Take an ordinary sized onion, mince it and fry it brown in a little butter. Add a little flour and brown that also. Then put in a ladleful of soup stock, the juice of a lemon and some salt and pepper. When it is done serve the onions in the center, the beets and sauce around, and serve hot.

A Popular Beet.

Plain Boiled Beets.—After thoroughly washing a dozen of young beets put them on a boil in cold water. Add a handful of salt and two tablespooms of vinegar. Cover the saucepan and cook for one hour or perhaps ten minutes longer than an hour. It may be necessary to add a little boiling water after three-quarters of an hour if the first has boiled away. When done skin out the beets into a pan of cold water and rub off the skins. Then put them into a stone jar (glass will do) and strain over them the liquid in which they were boiled. The vinegar keeps this from turning dark. Spread two tablespooms of powdered sugar on the beets, cover and put away in a cold place.

Yours respectfully,
FRANK LESLIE RUSSELL.

Lesson IV.—Third Quarter, For July 25, 1915.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, I Kings vii, 22-30; Memory Verses, 23, 24—Golden Text, Ivi, 7—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

I want to talk briefly to every man and woman in Madison County who believes in the fundamental principles of democracy. And in giving this so-called talk, I am not appealing to the prejudices and passions of those persons who align themselves with the party of the rich, the wealthy, the well-to-do. I am making a personal appeal to every person in Madison County who represents the Moral, Intellectual and Financial betterment of the County and State.

On August 7, 1915, the people of Madison County will be called upon to register their choice of the candidate for the office of Governor of Kentucky. The people of Madison County will be called upon to choose between two parties, but to choose between candidates. The selection between parties is not so difficult, but to make a choice between the two candidates is one of the arduous duties of the citizen.

This is the proposition I want to discuss with the people.

At the coming primary election you will have to choose one of four Democratic candidates for Governor. The party for Representative of Madison County in the next General Assembly of Kentucky. This is a very important office—one of the most important within the gift of the people.

The people of Madison County have an opportunity to choose between two candidates, but to choose between the two candidates is one of the arduous duties of the citizen.

Pleasant Hill, N. C.—"I suffered for three summers," writes Mrs. Walter Vincent, of this town, "and the third and last time, was my worst. I had dreadful nervous headaches and prostration, and was scarcely able to walk about. Could not do any of my housework."

I also had dreadful pains in my back and sides and when one of those weak, sinking spells would come on me, I would have to give up and lie down, until it wore off.

PROMINENT MAN PRAISES TANLAC
State Superintendent of Printing Voluntarily Pays Tribute to New Remedy.

Frankfort Ky., July 20.—A high State official is one of those who have come forward voluntarily to add his voice to the chorus of praise for Tanlac, the peerless preparation. This is Moses R. Glenn, State Superintendent of Printing whose office is in Frankfort.

"I think I had tried every remedy there is before I learned about Tanlac," he said recently. "I had a catarrhal affection, and could sleep very little because I swallowed the accretions from my throat. Of a morning I woke from a troubled slumber with a choking sensation, and would cough and spit all day.

"As soon as I began taking Tanlac I experienced an improvement. I had little faith at first that any medicine would help me, and so I am the more ready and even eager to say a word about this preparation. As a rule I am conservative and unwilling to give my endorsement to anything or anything, but this is an exceptional case. The itching in my ears is gone. I sleep soundly, and the accumulation in my nose and throat has disappeared. I want others to know how much good Tanlac has done me."

Tanlac is now being introduced in Richmond by H. L. Perry's drug store.
